Rhythm in Art

When you hear the word ‘rhythm’ you probably think of music, but did you know that visual art can have rhythm too?

Rhythm in art creates a sense of musicality and movement. It’s created with line, shape, colour and pattern.

When you look at these artworks by Randy Chollette, what rhythm do you think they have? What would they sound like if there was music coming from them?

1

Randy Chollette, A Song for the Griot, 2025.

2

Randy Chollette, Traces I, 2019.

3

Randy Chollette, Under Every Sun 2026.

Mindful Neurographic Art

- Place the tip of your pencil anywhere in the empty box below.
- Move your pencil around for 10 seconds creating any shapes that your hand naturally makes. You can do this with your eyes open or closed.
- Fill in the different sections with colour - don't think too hard, just use any colours you have available. If you don't have colours, you can shade using just a pencil.
- Trace over the separating lines to make them bolder.
- Add designs like polka-dots or swirls inside the sections (optional).
