

UPON THE SEAS

Activity Sheet

Name: _____

Butterfield

Top: Orlis by Brandon Saunders. Bottom Left: 80 Degrees West, old Isaks by Davin Ebanks. Bottom Middle: Low Tide by Vonler Powery. Bottom Right: Riding High by Miguel Powery.

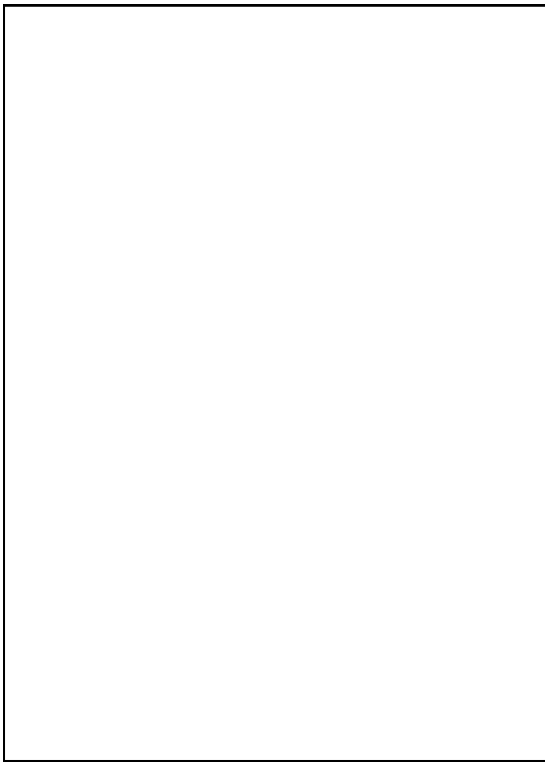

Start in the Dart Auditorium to view the exhibition
Saltwater in their Veins

★ INTERACTIVE

Pick 1 work of art where you find the sea looks the friendliest and 1 work of art where you think the sea looks the most threatening.

★ SKETCH the painting, write down their title and by which artist they are, and explain what you like the best in these paintings.

Title: _____

Artist: _____

What I like best: _____

Title: _____

Artist: _____

What I like best: _____

★ FIND the original drawing that this detail is taken from. What is the artist's name?

★ LOOK closely at this drawing. What do you see? What do you think the fishermen are doing?

D.E. Freeby. Untitled (detail). 1990.

★ DRAW what you would be doing if you were sailing at sea. What kind of boat would you have? Would you be fishing for turtles or conchs? Or would you be racing your catboat with a friend?

Move to the Lower Gallery to view the exhibition
Upon the Seas

★ FIND this boat. Without reading the label can you guess what it was designed for? Fishing, turtling, transport or leisure? No Peeking!

Shane 'Dready' Aquart., Rosalie Belliveau (detail), 2017.

★ WRITE your own label! What would you call this boat? What would you use it for?

Name of artist: _____

Title: _____

Date: _____

I would use this boat: _____

At home, paint or draw a boat and be sure to pay special attention to the details and what it is used for.

★ FIND the photographs by Brandon Saunders. These pieces were inspired by mythical creatures called sirens and sprites. Sirens would call sailors in with their music, only for the sailors to become shipwrecked on the reef. Sprites are less dangerous creatures; they are like water fairies. The sea is a place of great mystery, therefore many cultures from all over the world created different myths and legends about the sea and its creatures. ★ DRAW your own mythical sea creature in the frame!

Top: Brandon Saunders. Vivien. 2016

Bottom: Brandon Saunders. Adva. 2016.

BONUS: Do you know where to find Cayman's very own mermaid?!